- Description: A slightly large (both tall and wide) man with olive skin, curly black hair, black eyes, and a beard. Usually in a t-shirt and shorts.
- Bio: Raised in a middle-class Patrian family, he was intrigued by knowledge as a child. Eventually, he went overseas to MIT and graduated with a PhD in Computer Science. He returned and started working as an indie video game developer and as a lecturer at New Porto University. During this time, he organized for left-wing social issues and became an anarchist. Soon, he made a longshot Senate bid, which he won. After that, the organizing coalition he made became the Libertarian Socialist Federation. He decided to merge with the then-ailing National Confederation of Labor to form the rejuvenated Anarchist Federation of Labor.
